Dear Mr. Grafton:

Your File No. 4-KRA-20

In reply to your letter of June 29, relative to information concerning rights of the State of Florida in certain lakes as listed in your letter, you will find attached copy of a letter from the Attorney General to Honorable Randolph Hodges dated March 11, 1963, which covers the question in detail.

In the list of lakes contained in your letter it is noted that Lake Hart was not underlined as being meandered. This lake was meandered during the original surveys and is considered as being State owned.

For your convenience, we enclose a list of meandered lakes in Florida as prepared in this office.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Senator Hodges:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 4, 1963, requesting the advice of this office in connection with the position which the Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund should adopt concerning ownership of the submerged lands located in fresh water lakes, whether meandered or not, located in the State of Florida. Attached to your letter was a communication from Mr. Robert Grafton, attorney for the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, dated February 21, 1963, addressed to Mr. John W. Wakefield, Director of the Division of Water Resources and Conservation of your Department, which has reference to this problem of ownership of such unmeandered lakes, but which were navigable in fact in 1845, the date when Florida was admitted into the Union.

Unmeandered lakes are those which were not defined as public navigable water areas in the official U. S. Surveys. The bottom lands of such lakes were included in patents of acreage issued by the United States generally as swamp and overflowed lands to the State of Florida and subsequently sold into private ownership by the state acting through the Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund and the State Board of Education. It is true that many of these unmeandered lakes were actually navigable in fact at the time Florida was admitted into the Union in 1845, but it should be recognized that proof of such fact at this time might be difficult, if not impossible, in many instances. As to these unmeandered lakes, even though navigable in fact the state acquired title from the United States by patent in good faith and disposed of them in good faith, making no exceptions for the water areas. In many of these cases the private owner was subjected to payment of taxes for these water bottoms and in order to establish title in the state, divesting the private owner of his title, it would be necessary that the United States Survey of the area in question be overturned as being erroneous in not establishing the navigability of the lake at the time the Survey was made.

I think it would be the best policy for the Trustees to acknowledge private ownership of unmeandered lakes where taxes have been paid on said lands and no indication appears of record showing intention of said private owner to dedicate the lake bottom for public use. This general policy will be subject to the exception that where lakes are navigable in fact and it is manifest from a particular situation that the public interest therein is so extensive and paramount that it should be protected.

In these cases the sovereign character of the lake bottom should be asserted by the Trustees and if such determination is contested the Trustees should establish this determination by judicial decree in appropriate legal proceedings. The determination as to whether the Trustees will institute such litigation would be determined by the facts and circumstances of each case.

This general statement of policy as to the ownership of unmeandered lake bottoms would, of necessity, be made in recognition of the provisions of Section 271.09 (2) and (3).

The authority of the Trustees to assert ownership of lake bottoms in unmeandered lakes is also limited by application of the principle of estoppel which the courts have invoked against the Trustees wherein it has been adjudged that the Trustees are estopped to deny any valid instruments executed by them conveying these lands into private ownership. The most recent and far-reaching decision involving this doctrine of estoppel is the case of Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund vs. LoBean, 127 So. 2d 98, also shown as 118 So. 2d 226 (District Court of Appeal Decision).

I am aware of the problems which have been brought into play by reason of the fact that many of these unmeandered lakes were navigable in fact in 1845 when Florida was admitted into the Union, but it is impracticable for the Trustees to attempt to pursue a course of action which disregards the vested private interests and the judicial decrees heretofore defining these interests insofar as the rights, duties and responsibilities of the Trustees are concerned.

I trust the above comments will adequately express to you my feelings in connection with the problem which was brought to my attention by your letter, together with the attachment of Mr. Grafton thereto.

With warmest regards, I am

Sincerely,

Richard W. Ervin
Attorney General
